I am solution-oriented because:

I don't easily give in when I encounter an obstacle. I try to look at the situation from different angles, explore all possible options, and ultimately work toward the best outcome. An optimistic mindset often helps with that.

I am empathetic because:

I offer a listening ear to the people around me. I really try to put myself in their situation and understand what they need. This helps me build strong relationships and, for example, creates a pleasant and collaborative atmosphere with my colleagues at work.
